

Mark Chesterman

Chief Risk Officer

With an extensive background in global capital markets and foreign exchange, Mark Chesterman is OANDA's Chief Risk Officer, responsible for leading the global risk and quantitative research groups from the firm's London office.

Mark has held a variety of positions throughout his career, most recently as Head of Trading at OANDA, and previously in trading, operations, and intrapreneurship functions at other firms.

Mark holds an Executive MBA and a Masters in Finance from London Business School.